94th Year — 126

EPA Extension Granted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio industries and utilities, burning state-produced high sulfur coal, will get an extra year to meet federal air quality guidelines.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency agreed Friday to move an August 1979 deadline to June 1980 to give industries more time to test scrubbers, fluidized beds and other methods of removing sulfur dioxide in the combustion process when burning coal. Without some sort of filtering process, Ohio's high sulfur coal pollutes the air, by federal standards.

George R. Alexander Jr., EPA midwest regional administrator, made the concession in the face of pressure from Gov. James A. Rhodes and an order by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati to give 36 petitioning industries more time to adopt an air control plan.

Alexander said some adjustments had been made to ease requirements in some cases. "On the whole, however, the changes do not significantly alter the overall impact of the cleanup requirements," he said.

"We have told the court today that we are giving petitioners a longer period of time to decide whether they will install necessary control equipment that will allow them to burn local coal, or whether they will decide to buy out of state, low sulfur coal," Alexander said.

Those who decide to import cleaner out-of-state coal will have two years to get in line with the federal air standards.

Rhodes wants to find a way to use Ohio coal, which would benefit the state coal producers and industry, if an economical, efficient method can be developed to cleanse it.

"The fact of the matter is, the air in Ohio is unhealthy in many parts of the state," Alexander said at a news conference. "There is a widespread problem."

Divers Search Scioto

Pickaway County Sheriff's Divers were at press time continuing to search the Scioto River for the body of a 15-year-old youth who was believed to have drowned earlier in the morning.

The underwater search, conducted by members of the Sheriff's Underwater Recovery Team, was hampered by poor visibility and strong currents.

The 15-year-old youth is a resident of the Ohio Youth Commission Camp near Carroll.

Deputy Carroll Franklin said the boy was on a camp-out along the river bank just north of the Route 22 bridge with other OYCers and their counselor.

Several of the youngsters left the camp area about 11 p.m. Friday for a swim in the river.

Divers were called in several hours later to search the area, and returned with daylight Saturday.

The youth was wearing no clothing during the swim, Deputy Franklin said.

Policeman Suspended

Circleville Police Ptl. James B. Ford has been suspended pending outcome of a Tuesday hearing with City Safety Director John McGinnis.

The hearing will be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in chambers of Circleville City Council.

Ford was injured and arrested for drunk driving following a Thursday night accident on N. Court St.

The suspension was called by Police Chief Robert Temple because of Ford's alleged violation of department rules and regulations in connection with the accident.

According to Chief Temple, Ford has a right to an attorney at the hearing, and the right to appeal the decision to the Civil Service Commission and through the regular court system.

Ford was assigned to the day shift at the Police Department.

Ohio has had more sulfur dioxide violations than any other state in the nation, he said.

"What we're trying to do is get the air cleaned up in Ohio in the shortest possible time it can be done," Alexander said.

But the EPA official, who is based in Chicago, wants to know within 4½ months what approach various industries will take to meet the problem.

Ohio remains the last state in the nation that has yet to agree to a federal air plan or adopt its own plan, acceptable to federal officials.

"It's up to the major Ohio electrical utilities and industries to show how much they care about keeping Ohio mines open, how much they care about saving the jobs of Ohio miners, how much they care about the health and economic welfare of the people of this state," Alexander said.

Rhodes announced plans Thursday for a state-funded pilot project using fluidized beds to replace stack cleaning scrubbers at 10 locations. He has been discussing the system with Babcock and Wilcox Ltd., a British firm. In the fluidized bed process, limestone is mixed with high sulfur coal in a boiler to extract the polluting matter.

The governor had no immediate comment on Alexander's decision, but he reinstated state air standards that were lifted by executive order last Jan. 27.

PRESENT PICTURE — Rodney Archer, president of the 4-H Junior Leaders, presents an original oil painting by Vally Rahe to Steve Bartels as a token of appreciation for his 3½ years of 4-H work in Pickaway County. The painting was purchased by 4-H clubs of the county and presented on their behalf by Archer. It depicts 4-H members and their projects at the Pickaway County Fair. Bartels has been named the agricultural agent in Butler County.

More Arms Talks Announced

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — President Carter says Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet twice more in the next four months in an effort to put curbs on American cruise missiles and Soviet city-buster missiles.

Until Carter's announcement, Vance and Gromyko had been known to be planning only one more session following their negotiations in Geneva last week on a new strategic arms limitation treaty.

Flying here from Cape Canaveral, Fla., where he spent nearly nine hours cruising aboard a nuclear-powered attack submarine, Carter told reporters aboard Air Force One:

"The thing that's of most concern to us is that the Soviets have a number of very large missiles — the SS-18 ... the thing that we have that the Soviets are apparently concerned about is the cruise missile ... those are the two basic problems, the two basic concerns."

Carter said there was no way to predict whether limits on the two types of weapons could be negotiated but said, in apparent reference to the Vance-Gromyko talks in Geneva, that the United States and the Soviet Union are now "actually, seriously ... trying to reach some common ground."

When the Geneva talks ended, Vance and Gromyko said there would be more ambassadorial level talks in Washington and lower-rank discussions in Geneva, but that they personally would meet only once more.

After three days of talks, Vance and Gromyko admitted that serious differences remained in the way of a treaty to replace the five-year SALT I accord, which expires this October.

The Geneva talks ended in a three-part "framework" for a new strategic arms limitation agreement between the two countries.

The accord included a proposed treaty running until 1985, based generally on arms levels set at the 1979 talks, a three-year protocol to deal with disputed issues such as the missiles and a statement of principles for future talks on deeper cuts in the arms levels.

As he left Geneva, Gromyko accused the United States of not giving up on "its attempts to achieve unilateral advantage" in the arms field or "its attempts to undermine the security of the Soviet Union."

Carter, a one-time career Navy officer whose specialty was nuclear submarines, was asked at Cape Canaveral if his presence there was "in any way connected with the SALT talks."

Carter did not respond directly.

Instead, he said he had received a "partial demonstration" of how the sub, the USS Los Angeles, "could utilize cruise missiles in carrying out its basic purpose."

Carter said he thought cruise missiles, whether armed with conventional or nuclear warheads, will be "an integral part of the future of our defense forces."

He volunteered that the basic question of limits on this type of weapon would have to be negotiated in the talks. While restating his eventual goal of eliminating all atomic weapons around the world, Carter added, "Until that time, we will have to be cautious and careful, well equipped and well trained."

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — President Carter says Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet twice more in the next four months in an effort to put curbs on American cruise missiles and Soviet city-buster missiles.

Judge Shrugs Off Rape Ruling Criticism

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A county judge, confronted with a campaign for his recall after pronouncing rape a "normal" reaction by juveniles to sexual permissiveness, says he won't resign because he has too much community support.

Dane County Judge Archie Simonson said Friday that he has plenty of supporters in the county and was getting favorable response from around the country as well.

"A lot of support has been coming from church people, ministers and the like," Simonson said.

Besides, he said, "You can't recall a judge for an unpopular decision."

But the judge's critics were angered more by his courtroom remarks than by the punishment he meted out Wednesday at a hearing for a 15-year-old boy. The youth, who had not contested charges of second-degree sexual assault in the rape of a 16-year-old girl, was ordered to spend a year at home under court supervision.

A 14-year-old boy accused in the case was sentenced to one year at a group home in Milwaukee. A third boy was given immunity from prosecution in exchange for testimony against the others.

"This community is well known to be sexually permissive," Simonson said in court. Referring to provocative women's clothing, he asked, "Should we punish severely a 15- or 16-year-old who reacts normally to it?"

The girl who was raped was wearing jeans and a blouse over a turtleneck sweater.

Protesters, most of them women, who were angered by Simonson's statements marched in front of the city-county building Thursday, and announced plans for a petition to force a recall election. The clerk of Dane county, with a 1974 population of 300,800, said they would need 21,024 signatures. A judge could also be impeached by a two-thirds vote of the state legislature.

Instead, he said he had received a "partial demonstration" of how the sub, the USS Los Angeles, "could utilize cruise missiles in carrying out its basic purpose."

Carter said he thought cruise missiles, whether armed with conventional or nuclear warheads, will be "an integral part of the future of our defense forces."

It's Official: Trudeaus Split Up

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — A 73-word statement has ended months of speculation and gossip as Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his wife Margaret made it official: they are separating at her request after six years of marriage.

Margaret, who once said she wanted to be "more than a rose in my husband's lapel," had recently made it clear she felt increasingly confined by the strictures of marriage, motherhood and life as a politician's wife.

The Trudeaus have been separated much of the past three months, with Mrs. Trudeau accepting free-lance photographic assignments in the United States and France from the New York-based People magazine.

The statement, issued by the prime minister's office on Friday, said Margaret, 28, "wishes to leave the marriage and pursue an independent career."

Trudeau, 57, will have custody of the couple's three sons and will give their mother "generous access," the statement said.

Neither Trudeau nor Margaret was available for comment.

Margaret was believed to be in New York visiting a friend, Princess Yasmin Khan, daughter of actress Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan, but this could not be confirmed.

She stayed with the princess in New York in March during a visit in which she was linked romantically to Mick Jagger, lead singer of the Rolling Stones rock group. Both denied any involvement.

In an interview with People magazine last month, she said she has rented an apartment in New York so she can pursue her career and cease being "public property."

Trudeau's office said he was spending the weekend at the prime minister's summer residence on Harrington Lake, about 40 miles north of Ottawa, with his sons — Justin Pierre, 5, Alexandre (Sacha) Emmanuel, 3, and Michel Charles-Emile, 1.

A Trudeau spokesman said the break was a legal separation but said he did not know if a divorce would follow. Both are Roman Catholics.

Political observers said the separation probably would not harm Trudeau's popularity, which has been rising in public opinion polls.

Margaret Sinclair, the daughter of a former federal fisheries minister, married the bachelor prime minister March 4, 1971, in a secret ceremony at Vancouver. They had met two years earlier in Tahiti.

After her marriage, Margaret stayed out of the public eye until the Canadian general election in 1974.

Campaigning with her husband that year, she told an election rally in her hometown of North Vancouver, B.C., "He taught me a lot about loving." But she later told friends she hoped Trudeau's Liberal party would lose so they could have more time together. The Liberals won.

After 1974, Mrs. Trudeau began to acquire her own public image. She became increasingly outspoken over the past year about her rebellion against the restraints placed on the prime minister's wife.

Japan's Protein Search

If the Japanese had as much success in producing protein as they do in electronic components, they would consider one of their major problems solved. Japan is a protein-poor country which for generations has depended upon fish to fill much of the need.

Now fish is becoming nearly as expensive as beef in Japan.

Formerly cheap salmon now sells for $3 a pound, mackerel almost as much and tuna is $6 a pound. With sirloin selling for $10 to $20 a pound the fish prices may sound like bargains, but only relatively. The average fish price has doubled in the last year.

Japan has been punished perhaps worse than any other nation by the 100-mile fishing limits imposed by the United States and the Soviet Union last March. Fishing grounds which were former favorites of Japan's large fishing fleets are now off limits, or at best provide sharply limited catches.

Soon, the scramble for protein in Japan may exceed even its search for oil.

How To Have A Happy

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — This weekend marks the official opening of the summer vacation season—a time for fun and sun. Also, if one is not careful, a time for dysentery, wasp attacks, jet-lag syndrome and the ever-popular status sickness of the 70s, infectious hepatitis.

These are only a few of the multitude of ailments to which jolly summer travelers are susceptible, and yet almost no one plotting a trip ever thinks about them.

According to doctors speaking at a symposium on health and travel which I once attended, "People planning trips rarely have a precaution in their heads—much less their luggage. Their motto should be, be prepared for trouble."

It was estimated at that symposium that of millions of Americans who travel in the summertime, hundreds of thousands will experience some form of illness during their trips. Example: 80 percent of all children aged 14 and younger suffer from motion sickness, ranging from mild to severe, in cars and planes. Overweight people have a tendency to become ill more frequently than those of normal weight. And persons with stomach problems, chronic or occasional, often have to curtail vacations which might have benefited them immensely had the trips been more cautiously and strategically planned.

"Any 'hidden' physical weaknesses," one doctor pointed out, "Are likely to show up distressingly during travel." And the farther from the home milieu one strays, the more susceptible he is. Call it away-from-home sickness.

Some tips offered by doctors include these:

- Before leaving, especially for foreign trips, it is interesting to check your health insurance policy to ascertain if it is "good" anywhere you will be traveling.
- If you are taking any prescription drugs, stock up on enough to last the entire trip, and take a spare prescription with you. Also, take an extra pair of eyeglasses, and a prescription for a replacement in an emergency.
- Pack a medical kit, including thermometer, aspirin, vitamins, bandages, tweezers etc. (whatever is applicable to possible personal and family needs in the locale to be visited). If other countries are on the itinerary, take either an iodine water purifier or an immersion heater with adapter plug, to boil water. Watch the water everywhere; even if it is perfectly pure, the change in mineral content from water at home could cause stomach upsets.

- Pack medicines in a carry-on bag, if traveling by air.
- If you tend toward motion sickness, take any of the many drugs prescribed to alleviate it. Also, in cars, sit in the front seat with the window open. On ships, a stateroom or cabin amidships near the waterline will minimize the roll. On planes, since most turns in aerial traffic are to the left, a seat on the right side near the wing is recommended for those affected by motion sickness.
- If you should become "indisposed," even mildly during a trip, slow down. Skip the next stop if necessary, to prevent a minor problem from becoming a major one.
- When traveling across time zones, allow time for your body to adapt after landing. It may take two days or more for your body temperature, glandular activity, chemical and fluid balance to catch up to the speed of your jet flight.
- If you become ill abroad, you'll want to contact a doctor. Don't rely on the advice of a local bell captain or concierge in a foreign hotel if there is an American Embassy or Consulate to call for advice. Embassies often have lists of excellent physicians, who can speak your language.

If visiting any primitive areas, take the necessary inoculations and also inquire about gamma globulin shots to ward against hepatitis in areas with low hygienic standards.

Watch overeating, and overdrinking. Not to mention oversunning and overexercising. The American plan resort has resulted in a tendency to overeat (just because it's free, don't eat everything offered at meals), straining the stomach tolerances of vacationers. And, as everyone should realize, unaccustomed exercise can be a dangerous strain on the heart.

Now vacationers - now that you're all converted into instant hypochondriacs - have a wonderful vacation...if you still have the courage to leave home.

Don't forget to turn off the gas, and watch out for sharks.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As one analyst explained during the sharp drop in the market this week, "people are looking for excuses not to invest."

If that's what they're looking for they don't have far to look.

They can look toward Washington, where the outwardly serene but inwardly troubled Arthur Burns is deciding how he will fight his latest battle with demon inflation. Most likely through higher interest rates.

Burns gives few signs, but that's the point. An investor in doubt is not an investor who makes big commitments. Uncertainty is a market-killer, frightening those with cash into the most conservative channels, such as bank accounts.

Investors can also look all about them, at prices that seem to resist the efforts of government to talk them down. This is the second of the two "I's" staring down the market. Inflation and high interest are enemies.

Yes, these and other factors you don't hear about so often, like institutional behavior.

Very often the trading of institutions, such as mutual and pension funds, will be listed under "technical factors," meaning that their behavior is a reaction to the market place itself rather than to external events.

Do they feel stocks are inexpensive? Do they have the cash on hand or are they pinched? Do they feel they should diversify more because they are too heavily invested in a certain company or industry?

All these are factors that influence other investors too, but there's a difference. Individuals are just that, but institutions are collections of individuals. They have the power, literally, of thousands of investors.

As such, they reduce the random assortment of views that might otherwise rule the marketplace. If the individuals who make up institutions made their own decisions, those decisions would be varied. When they have the institution make the decision for them, their varied voices becomes one.

There is another tendency that exaggerates this sameness. Those who run institutions, that is, sometimes run as a herd. Knowing the trading power — call it tramping power — of their institutional colleagues, they aren't inclined to go their own way. Mavericks can get lost.

At the moment, the institutional market isn't very enthusiastic about very much, a neutral state of mind that cannot be sustained long before it degenerates into bearishness, into looking for excuses not to invest.

All this is the opposite of what used to be the market. Risk was encouraged. Individual participation provided diversity and unpredictability. The market was a random walk, as they used to say, not a carefully circumscribed path from which you dare not stray.

Today it's a conservative market. For the time being, perhaps a bearish market. Maybe even a frightened, timid one looking for reasons not to make commitments.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Bates and Jill Clayburgh will star in Paul Mazursky's new movie, "An Unmarried Woman." The 20th Century-Fox production, written and directed by Mazursky, is the story of a woman and her daughter after the breakup of a 15-year marriage.

Twentieth Century-Fox also announced the production of two other films, "The World's Greatest Lover," starring Gene Wilder, Carol Kane and Dom DeLuise and "The Other Side of Midnight," with Marie-France Pisier, John Beck, Susan Sarandon and Raf Vallone. "Midnight," with a score by Michel Legrand, is slated for a June release.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My wife is a vitamin bug. Now she's on a kick of vitamin E. She believes it's the answer to all the ills of mankind. The trouble is that she tries to push me into all this. I'm 54, strong as an ox, I eat well and work hard. Why should I be taking vitamin E?

Mr. T.M., La.

Many people have been captivated by the mystique of vitamin E and ascribe to it almost supernatural powers. Enthusiasts are sure that it prevents cancers, heart disease, cirrhosis of the liver, psoriasis, delays the process of aging and restores virility. To them, it is the sought-after fountain of youth.

Vitamin E belongs to a group known as the "tocopherols." It is found in high concentration in foods such as nuts, lettuce, wheat germ and in some parts of beef.

Overloading one's self with vitamins serves no purpose for people who are eating a normal, nutritious diet.

In the absence of any known deficiency, a simple multi-vitamin supplement is sufficient for most people. When there is a suspicion that a deficiency exists, it can be tested and followed by adequate replacement.

Fortunately, our body has a fuse which in general keeps it from being overloaded by vitamins that can be harmful in too large concentration. Yet, even with this built-in wisdom, over-concentration of vitamins A and D can be harmful.

I have allergies. Sometimes, after a machine-gun series of sneezes I get a hemorrhage in the eye. This lasts for weeks. I'm embarrassed because I have to constantly explain this. Can this ever affect the vision?

Miss S.W., Mass.

Dear Mr. M.:

Replacing synthetic fibers with cotton would require 40 million acres of cotton-growing land — nearly the total arable land in Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama and Texas, according to the Society of the Plastics Industry.

The essential role of man-made fibers such as nylons and polyesters becomes obvious when a theoretical attempt is made to replace them, said Ralph L. Harding Jr., president of the industry group.

Substituting wool for synthetic fibers would demand a billion acres of grazing land, equal to all the agricultural land in the United States, according to Harding.

-When traveling across time zones, allow time for your body to adapt after landing. It may take two days or more for your body temperature, glandular activity, chemical and fluid balance to catch up to the speed of your jet flight.

-If you become ill abroad, you'll want to contact a doctor. Don't rely on the advice of a local bell captain or concierge in a foreign hotel if there is an American Embassy or Consulate to call for advice. Embassies often have lists of excellent physicians, who can speak your language.

If visiting any primitive areas, take the necessary inoculations and also inquire about gamma globulin shots to ward against hepatitis in areas with low hygienic standards.

Watch overeating, and overdrinking. Not to mention oversunning and overexercising. The American plan resort has resulted in a tendency to overeat (just because it's free, don't eat everything offered at meals), straining the stomach tolerances of vacationers. And, as everyone should realize, unaccustomed exercise can be a dangerous strain on the heart.

Now vacationers—now that you're all converted into instant hypochondriacs—have a wonderful vacation...if you still have the courage to leave home.

Don't forget to turn off the gas, and watch out for sharks.

At The Movies

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My wife is a vitamin bug. Now she's on a kick of vitamin E. She believes it's the answer to all the ills of mankind. The trouble is that she tries to push me into all this. I'm 54, strong as an ox, I eat well and work hard. Why should I be taking vitamin E?

Mr. T.M., La.

Many people have been captivated by the mystique of vitamin E and ascribe to it almost supernatural powers. Enthusiasts are sure that it prevents cancers, heart disease, cirrhosis of the liver, psoriasis, delays the process of aging and restores virility. To them, it is the sought-after fountain of youth.

Vitamin E belongs to a group known as the "tocopherols." It is found in high concentration in foods such as nuts, lettuce, wheat germ and in some parts of

Replacing Synthetics

NEW YORK (AP) — Replacing synthetic fibers with cotton would require 40 million acres of cotton-growing land — nearly the total arable land in Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama and Texas, according to the Society of the Plastics Industry.

The essential role of man-made fibers such as nylons and polyesters becomes obvious when a theoretical attempt is made to replace them, said Ralph L. Harding Jr., president of the industry group.

Substituting wool for synthetic fibers would demand a billion acres of grazing land, equal to all the agricultural land in the United States, according to Harding.

Cyclist Hurt On Hill Climb

A Circleville man suffered minor injuries when he leaped from his motorcycle during a hill climb Friday afternoon.

John A. Hoffhines, 27, 1730 Chippewa Drive, was treated at Berger Hospital for a small laceration to his left forearm. He was later released.

Hoffhines told Deputy Sheriff Jim Dixon that he was traversing a motocross course on private property near Route 180 when the accident occurred.

He was in the process of climbing a steep embankment when his motorcycle lost power. Hoffhines leaped from the motorcycle, Deputy Dixon said.

'Pops' Concert To Be Given At Adena June 4

The Columbus Symphony Orchestra will perform a "pops" concert on the grounds of the Adena plantation on Allen Ave. in Chillicothe at 7 p.m. June 4.

Adena, which was built in the early 19th century by Thomas Worthington, the sixth Governor of Ohio, is the site from which the Great Seal of Ohio was conceived. A platform has been built for visitors to overlook the twin peaks of Mount Logan.

The plantation's mansion, formal gardens and outbuildings will be open for concert goers to enjoy beginning at 6 p.m. The symphony's string quartet and woodwind quintet will perform at Adena in the afternoon before the concert.

The 7 p.m. concert will feature light classical pieces and show tunes. The performance will be staged on the lawn at Adena and visitors are urged to bring folding chairs or blankets for the concert.

Tickets are now available at Central Ticket Office locations. Tickets will also be sold on the evening of the concert at Adena.

In the event of rain, the concert will be held at 7 p.m. on June 5.

DEAR WANTS: A teenager's "crush" or "puppy love" is as real as mature love is to an adult.

Teenagers suffer the same longings, yearnings, heartaches and excitement that older lovers experience. And the pain of puppy love are deeper because the frustrations are greater.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a boat. We both love boating and so do our children.

Here's the problem: My husband can't swim a stroke, and he refuses to wear a life preserver. He says he has to die sometime and he doesn't care how he goes.

We have five children, Abby. They range from 13 years old down to 3. I get frightened half to death when we are in the boat with him, and the waters get rough or a storm comes up. I am becoming a nervous wreck over this. Can you suggest something?

NEWPORT

DEAR NEWPORT: Tell your "hero" that even if HE doesn't care how he goes, YOU do. And you also care WHEN! Remind him that you didn't have those five children without his help, and you don't intend to raise them alone, either. That ought to buoy the old boy up.

DEAR ABBY: Every year my daughter and her children have visited us and stayed all summer, and each year the children grow a little bolder.

Last summer my home was bedlam! The children kept the stereo going full-blast night and day, refused to pick up after themselves, ate all day long and abused our lovely furniture. They partied all night and left the mess for me to clean up in the morning.

They had their teenage friends running in and out and never bothered to introduce one of them to their grandfather and me. (Their mother said teenagers NEVER introduced their friends to anyone, not even to their parents.) I was shocked to hear the rude manner in which those children talked back to their mother, and she didn't say a word.

If I had treated my elders that way, my mother would have worn out a willow switch on me. Summer is upon us, and I am dreading it. Have you any advise for me?

GRAM

DEAR GRAM: No advice, just sympathy. If you put up with those hooligans another summer, you've asked for it. Apparently you failed to teach your daughter what your mother taught you: Respect for one's elders. For if you had, she'd have passed it on to HER children. And perhaps something else would have been passed on: the willow switch.

STRAWBERRY PLANTS — Strawberries are beginning to ripen at Rhoads' Farm Market in spite of a late freeze which cut the crop nearly 50 per cent. Rhoads has 3½ acres in production and will open the fields next week to a "pick your own" program. A harvest of 15,000 to 18,000 quarts of berries is expected. The season normally lasts about four weeks. In addition to strawberries, the market also has a "harvest your own" program for beans, peas, tomatoes, limas and potatoes.

Teacher Convicted

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Federation of Teachers (CFT) indicated a further delay in supporting a tax levy after one of four teachers was convicted of picket line wrongdoing.

CFT President Roger Stephens said the conviction of a teacher for a picket line offense has nothing to do with reinstatement procedures.

Elbert Tate, 28, suspended from his job at Winton Place Elementary School, said he would appeal his conviction and 30-day jail sentence for complicity in criminal damaging.

Tate was convicted of inducing three boys to slash the tires of nonstriking teachers April 15 during the CFT's 19-day strike.

Three other teachers are scheduled for trials for picket line offenses.

The Cincinnati Board of Education fired all four. The firings are being appealed.

Watch Out For Bean Yellow Mosaic Virus

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Bean yellow mosaic virus was especially serious during the 1976 growing season. The symptoms expressed were quite varied due to the presence of several strains of the virus, the reactions of different varieties. Bean viruses were a problem in nearby states as well, with reports of these viruses being serious problems in Tennessee, Virginia, and Ohio. Symptoms on leaves may include crinkling, downward cupping, yellow mottling, and dead areas along the veins. Death of vine tips and new leaves was conspicuous on pole and half-runner bean types. Vines may die back several feet, thereby destroying the bean plants. Bean yellow mosaic virus is carried to beans by aphids from nearby white and alsike clovers, or other related legumes, so be sure and control its aphids. Protection is needed at all times. Plants infected with root and stem rot, manganese toxicity, and bacterial blight may show some symptoms similar to that of the virus disease. Observations of roots and lower stems, knowledge of soil pH conditions, and observation of the combination of symptoms will aid in separating these problems from virus problems.

Bean rust symptoms are characterized by reddish-brown to black, slightly raised spots or pustules on the leaves. Bean rust usually appears late in the growing season.

The following suggestions, if used, may reduce the amount of bean disease damage in home gardens.

1. Rotate beans with other crops in the garden.
2. Plant beans when the soil is warm.
3. Treatment of bean seeds or treatment of furrow and covering soil with Captan Fungicide may help. Although other chemicals may be better, Captan is available in small quantities.
4. Avoid planting beans near white clover or other legumes.
5. A barrier of sweet corn or other tall-growing crops on the windward side of the beans may reduce disease.
6. Destroy legume weeds in fencerows and other areas near the garden.
7. Plant bush-type beans if possible.

It appears that Kentucky Wonder Pole beans and white-Half Runner beans are more susceptible to the virus and

Register Beef Producers

"The Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office will register beef producers June 6-17 to vote on the beef research and information order," said Roy Dunkle, Chairman of the Pickaway County ASCS Committee. "Beef producers who fail to register cannot vote in the July referendum."

If over half of registered producers vote in the referendum and two-thirds of those voting approve the order, the Secretary of Agriculture will appoint a beef board, composed of not more than 68 beef producers, from names submitted by producer organizations. The board would collect assessments on sales of cattle and use the funds for beef research and information programs.

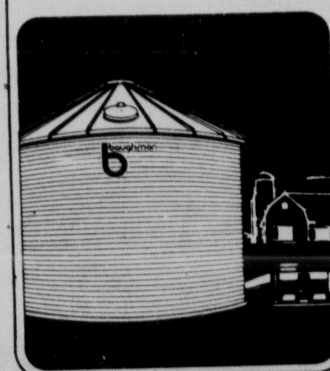

Registration may be in person or by mail. Those who wish to register by mail may request the ASCS county office to mail registration cards.

All persons who produced beef during calendar 1976 are eligible to register. This includes feedlot operators as well as dairymen. Each production entity—such as a family, partnership, or corporation—is entitled to one vote. A 4-H or FFA member may register, provided he or she produced beef independent of the family operation.

From June 6 through 17, the ASCS county office will daily post a list of producers registered to vote in a conspicuous place. A final list will be posted June 22. Anyone may challenge the eligibility of any producer listed. Walton W. Spangler, Pickaway County ASCS Executive Director, will resolve challenges.

Scab Is Active On Ornamental Crabapples

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Scab is one of the most devastating diseases of ornamental crabapples. It can also be a problem on hawthorn and mountain ash if weather conditions in early spring are optimum for the development of this disease. Trees can be defoliated in late June or early July and remain sparsely foliated during the remainder of the summer. Defoliation of trees is not only unsightly, thus reducing the aesthetic appeal of the property, but also reduces the vigor of the tree, thus making it more susceptible to other disorders.

SCAB — Olive-green to sooty spots on crabapple leaves are the first symptoms of scab to be noticed.

The symptoms appear first on the leaves in May or early June as olive-green or sooty or smudgy soots with uneven feathery margins on the underside of young leaves. On older leaves the diseased areas appear as definite spots, slightly raised, black in color and velvety in appearance. The tissue on the lower side becomes depressed and may appear cup-like. As the spots develop the leaves turn yellow and drop prematurely. The symptoms on the blossoms and fruits are similar to those on the leaves except that fruits may be deformed if heavily infected. Typical fruit lesions are distinct, almost circular, olive green spots that later become brown with black margins and a corky appearance.

Scab is caused by a fungus that overwinters in the infected fallen leaves, or rarely on twigs of the tree. During the early spring the fungus develops special structures that forcefully eject the spores during warm spring rains in April and May. These spores are carried to the young leaves by wind currents. If weather conditions remain favorable the spores will germinate and infect the leaf or fruit. Spores can be discharged for a period of six weeks during the spring. At 70 degrees the optimum temperature, 9 hours of continuous wetting is necessary for spore germination and infection to occur. At 46 degrees, 20 hours of continuous wetting is necessary for infection.

Raking and burning infected fallen leaves in the fall will help to eliminate some of the inoculum. However, spores can blow in from other areas so this method will not give complete control.

Some varieties of crabapple are resistant to apple scab and should be planted where possible. Lists of scab resistant and scab susceptible cultivars are available from many sources. Before purchasing a crabapple, you should find out about its scab susceptibility rating.

Fungicide sprays will effectively control apple scab if they are applied at regular intervals and good coverage is obtained each time. Fungicides registered for this disease include captan, mancozeb (FORE), or benomyl (Benlate). Follow the labeled instructions for use.

Mexican Bean Beetle Attacks Young Soybeans

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Mexican bean beetle adults (overwintering) attacked young soybean plants throughout southern Ohio last year, says B. D. Blair, Extension Entomologist at The Ohio State University. Bean fields should be checked weekly to avoid serious losses by Mexican bean beetles, he suggests.

Smaller soybean fields surrounded by wooded areas appeared to be the most damaged last year. It is thought that the adult beetles came from wooded areas where they had overwintered, Blair explains.

Both adults and larvae attack the plants. The adults resemble a lady beetle, are yellow to copper colored, and 1/4 to 1-3 inch long. Each wing has eight black spots in three rows across the body. Fully grown larvae are 1-3 inch long. They are oval-shaped, yellow, and have six rows of long branching black-tipped spines on their backs.

Larvae chew the leaves, leaving lace-like windows of crushed tissues from which the juices have been extracted. Adult beetles eat holes in the leaves. If 40 per cent of the total foliage per plant is lost (before bloom stage) then controls are justified. Extension bulletin 545, "Insect Pests of Field Crops," lists control measures and is available at the county Extension Office.

Watch Out For Bean Yellow Mosaic Virus

By GEORGE HAMRICK

County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Bean yellow mosaic virus was especially serious during the 1976 growing season. The symptoms expressed were quite varied due to the presence of several strains of the virus, the reactions of different varieties. Bean viruses were a problem in nearby states as well, with reports of these viruses being serious problems in Tennessee, Virginia, and Ohio. Symptoms on leaves may include crinkling, downward cupping, yellow mottling, and dead areas along the veins. Death of vine tips and new leaves was conspicuous on pole and half-runner bean types. Vines may die back several feet, thereby destroying the bean plants. Bean yellow mosaic virus is carried to beans by aphids from nearby white and alsike clovers, or other related legumes, so be sure and control its aphids. Protection is needed at all times. Plants infected with root and stem rot, manganese toxicity, and bacterial blight may show some symptoms similar to that of the virus disease. Observations of roots and lower stems, knowledge of soil pH conditions, and observation of the combination of symptoms will aid in separating these problems from virus problems.

Bean rust symptoms are characterized by reddish-brown to black, slightly raised spots or pustules on the leaves. Bean rust usually appears late in the growing season.

The following suggestions, if used, may reduce the amount of bean disease damage in home gardens.

1. Rotate beans with other crops in the garden.
2. Plant beans when the soil is warm.
3. Treatment of bean seeds or treatment of furrow and covering soil with Captan Fungicide may help. Although other chemicals may be better, Captan is available in small quantities.
4. Avoid planting beans near white clover or other legumes.
5. A barrier of sweet corn or other tall-growing crops on the windward side of the beans may reduce disease.
6. Destroy legume weeds in fencerows and other areas near the garden.
7. Plant bush-type beans if possible.

It appears that Kentucky Wonder Pole beans and white-Half Runner beans are more susceptible to the virus and

Register Beef Producers

"The Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office will register beef producers June 6-17 to vote on the beef research and information order," said Roy Dunkle, Chairman of the Pickaway County ASCS Committee. "Beef producers who fail to register cannot vote in the July referendum.

If over half of registered producers vote in the referendum and two-thirds of those voting approve the order, the Secretary of Agriculture will appoint a beef board, composed of not more than 68 beef producers, from names submitted by producer organizations. The board would collect assessments on sales of cattle and use the funds for beef research and information programs.

Registration may be in person or by mail. Those who wish to register by mail may request the ASCS county office to mail registration cards.

All persons who produced beef during calendar 1976 are eligible to register. This includes feedlot operators as well as dairymen. Each production entity—such as a family, partnership, or corporation—is entitled to one vote. A 4-H or FFA member may register, provided he or she produced beef independent of the family operation.

From June 6 through 17, the ASCS county office will daily post a list of producers registered to vote in a conspicuous place. A final list will be posted June 22. Anyone may challenge the eligibility of any producer listed. Walton W. Spangler, Pickaway County ASCS Executive Director, will resolve challenges.

Scab Is Active On Ornamental Crabapples

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Scab is one of the most devastating diseases of ornamental crabapples. It can also be a problem on hawthorn and mountain ash if weather conditions in early spring are optimum for the development of this disease. Trees can be defoliated in late June or early July and remain sparsely foliated during the remainder of the summer. Defoliation of trees is not only unsightly, thus reducing the aesthetic appeal of the property, but also reduces the vigor of the tree, thus making it more susceptible to other disorders.

SCAB — Olive-green to sooty spots on crabapple leaves are the first symptoms of scab to be noticed.

The symptoms appear first on the leaves in May or early June as olive-green or sooty or smudgy soots with uneven feathery margins on the underside of young leaves. On older leaves the diseased areas appear as definite spots, slightly raised, black in color and velvety in appearance. The tissue on the lower side becomes depressed and may appear cup-like. As the spots develop the leaves turn yellow and drop prematurely. The symptoms on the blossoms and fruits are similar to those on the leaves except that fruits may be deformed if heavily infected. Typical fruit lesions are distinct, almost circular, olive green spots that later become brown with black margins and a corky appearance.

Scab is caused by a fungus that overwinters in the infected fallen leaves, or rarely on twigs of the tree. During the early spring the fungus develops special structures that forcefully eject the spores during warm spring rains in April and May. These spores are carried to the young leaves by wind currents. If weather conditions remain favorable the spores will germinate and infect the leaf or fruit. Spores can be discharged for a period of six weeks during the spring. At 70 degrees the optimum temperature, 9 hours of continuous wetting is necessary for spore germination and infection to occur. At 46 degrees, 20 hours of continuous wetting is necessary for infection.

Raking and burning infected fallen leaves in the fall will help to eliminate some of the inoculum. However, spores can blow in from other areas so this method will not give complete control.

Some varieties of crabapple are resistant to apple scab and should be planted where possible. Lists of scab resistant and scab susceptible

Mexican Bean Beetle Attacks Young Soybeans

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Mexican bean beetle adults (overwintering) attacked young soybean plants throughout southern Ohio last year, says B. D. Blair, Extension Entomologist at The Ohio State University. Bean fields should be checked weekly to avoid serious losses by Mexican bean beetles, he suggests.

Smaller soybean fields surrounded by wooded areas appeared to be the most damaged last year. It is thought that the adult beetles came from wooded areas where they had overwintered, Blair explains.

Both adults and larvae attack the plants. The adults resemble a lady beetle, are yellow to copper colored, and ¼ to 1-3 inch long. Each wing has eight black spots in three rows across the body. Fully grown larvae are 1-3 inch long. They are oval-shaped, yellow, and have six rows of long branching black-tipped spines on their backs.

Larvae chew the leaves, leaving lace-like windows of crushed tissues from which the juices have been extracted. Adult beetles eat holes in the leaves. If 40 per cent of the total foliage per plant is lost (before bloom stage) then controls are justified. Extension bulletin 545, "Insect Pests of Field Crops," lists control measures and is available at the county Extension Office.

cultivars are available from many sources. Before purchasing a crabapple, you should find out about its scab susceptibility rating.

Fungicide sprays will effectively control apple scab if they are applied at regular intervals and good coverage is obtained each time. Fungicides registered for this disease include captan, mancozeb (FORE), or benomyl (Benlate). Follow the labeled instructions for use.

Protect ripening strawberries from birds. Red beet and carrot harvest begins.	3 There is still time to plant tuberous begonias, geraniums, annual flowers, chrysanthemums and day lilies—up until June 15.	4
6 Keep weeds controlled in garden. As leaves of flowering bulb plants such as tulip turn yellow, remove them and fill space with annual flowers.	7 Apply mulches to roses and well established vegetables, annuals and perennials.	8 Remove spent rose blooms. Fertilize roses. Mow grass on a regular basis, allowing no more than 1 to 1½ inches new growth.	9 Pinch established chrysanthemums to reduce height and form a lower, stocky plant. There is still time to plant bush lima beans.	10 Bearded Iris can be divided and reset after flowering.	11
13 Check Pick-Your-Own strawberry sources as this is about the peak of the harvest season.	14 Check fruit trees for excessive loads of fruit. Hand thinning and/or branch propping may be necessary.	15 Balled and burlapped or container nursery stock can still be planted with success. Broccoli harvest begins.	16 Control insects and diseases in the flower and vegetable gardens with a regular spraying or dusting program (every 7-10 days).	17 Freeze strawberries with or without sugar.	18
20 Make another planting of carrots. Garden pea harvest time until July 1.	21 Long, hot days of summer result in seed-stalk development in radish, spinach and lettuce plants. Remove these from the garden and replace with other vegetables.	22 If the garden soil is beginning to dry out, supplemental watering will be necessary to keep plant growing. Mulch can reduce frequency of irrigation.	23 Prune climbing roses after they have bloomed. Remove dead and aging canes.	24 Gooseberries are beginning to ripen. Strawberry harvest season over or drawing to a close.	25
27 Red tart cherry harvest begins.	28 Make last planting of sweet corn.	29 After harvest season, asparagus and rhubarb growth can be stimulated by a nitrogen fertilizer side dressing. News For Homemakers

By BEVERLY SEYMOUR BECHTEL
County Extension Agent,

This hot weather is rough on all of us, but especially those engaged in out-of-doors physical activity. Some guidelines for nutrition for athletes recently appeared in Contemporary Nutrition newsletter and would be good advice for us all.

Mr. Robert Serfass of the University of Minnesota discusses various nutrients as they relate to heavy physical activity. He points out that:

Calorie requirements vary depending on body size, age, type of competition and level of training; 38 per cent of Australian Olympians consumed daily intakes of 3,000-4,000 calories, 23 per cent had intakes of 4,000-5,000 calories and 6 per cent consumed more than 6,000 calories. A more prudent diet for the typical American, he recommends, would include 15 per cent protein, 30 per cent fat and 55 per cent carbohydrate.

Carbohydrate is the most efficient fuel for energy production at high levels of oxygen consumption and is used almost exclusively in the work about 75 per cent of maximum work capacity. Prolonged submaximal exercise or repeated bouts of high intensity, short duration exercises can result in the eventual depletion of skeletal muscle and liver glycogen. It has been shown that an individual's ability to sustain prolonged work of this nature is directly related to initial glycogen stores.

Some athletes try "carbohydrate loading." This is depletion of body carbohydrate stores (through exercise) followed by several days of carbohydrate deprivation and then several days of high carbohydrate intake. This has been shown to double carbohydrate stores in muscle. This practice may improve physical endurance performance of some athletes, but should not be used indiscriminately. It is only effective in endurance-orientated events and may make training during the carbohydrate deprivation phase difficult and produces considerable retention of water, even sluggishness. Also, ECG (heart) abnormalities and angina have been reported in older athletes who attempted carbohydrate loading. Eating carbohydrates during heavy activity can prevent the premature depletion of liver glycogen stores and improve endurance performance.

Some people who exercise heavily, then starve themselves for several days to lose weight in a hurry may actually be "carbohydrate loading" their muscle, causing water retention and sluggishness.

Dr. Surfass also says of dehydration and starvation during hot weather: "Reports each year of deaths attributed to heat stroke make it imperative and athletes understand the role of rehydration related to exercise in hot, humid weather. Large water losses are not uncommon in athletes active in the heat, and can impair thermoregulation. Potential dehydration can be effectively monitored by careful attention to daily measures of body weight."

It is important to realize that satisfaction of thirst is not an adequate mechanism to insure necessary fluid replacement and the rehydration without adequate electrolyte replacement can lead to symptoms similar to those encountered in heat exhaustion. Also, fluids with too high a concentration of electrolytes and/or glucose cannot be optimally absorbed by the intestine. Attempts to lose weight rapidly through food deprivation or fluid restriction should be vigorously discouraged. The deleterious effects of this practice include reductions in muscular strength, work performance, cardiac efficiency and adaptation to thermoregulation and have recently been reviewed by the American College of Sports Medicine."

Industrial output increased 0.8 per cent in April on a seasonally adjusted basis, the third consecutive month of strong gains following the 0.8 per cent decline in Jan. Apr. increase raised the index of industrial production to 136.1 per cent of the 1967 avg., 6 per cent above the year earlier level. Increase came despite a 4 per cent drop in automobile assemblies, and gains were otherwise widespread. Non-durables were up 0.6 per cent, business equipment advanced 0.8 per cent, and materials were up 1.2 per cent. Impact was reflected in the drop in unemployment to 7 per cent. However, with retail sales off 0.1 per cent in April and a slow-down in income growth, the outlook for continued increases in industrial production will remain uncertain.

Housing starts continue to increase, pointing to continued economic stimulus. Although April starts were 11 per cent less than March, they were 35 per cent above a year earlier. Building permits issued also increased. Single family houses, multifamily units, and mobile home shipments were all up substantially from a year earlier.

World agricultural output in 1976 increased about 3 per cent from 1975, not counting the People's Republic of China for which data aren't available. Gain was about equally spread between developed and developing countries, but more even in developing world. A 15 per cent bounce-back in Soviet production, combined with higher Canadian production, offset declines in Western Europe, Oceania and Japan while the U.S. and Eastern Europe had little change. In the developing nations, all regions shared in the increase with largest gains in East and West Asia and smallest in South Asia.

Meat consumption per person in the U.S. of 180 pounds per person ranked fifth behind Uruguay, Australia, Argentina and New Zealand in 1975. Total meat consumption per capita on a carcass weight basis in Uruguay was 104 kilos or 228 pounds. Australia consumed 222 pounds, Argentina 215 pounds and New Zealand 209 pounds. A reduction in pork consumption occurred in the U.S. Sharp increases in exporting countries resulted from increased production and restricted export markets.

Cattle prices may have passed their low point for the current cattle cycle and look to begin a slow upward trend for the next 12-18 months. Following that, a more rapid increase is possible. Slaughter of cows and nonfed heifers and steers is falling off sharply from year ago levels as liquidation of the cattle inventory winds down. Such slaughter was down nearly 13 per cent in the first quarter and looks to be down 10-15 per cent over the next several months if normal weather prevails, thus preventing a sell-off due to poor pasture conditions. Fed cattle marketings look to be up nominally in the second quarter from last year but placements have not been large enough to generate significant gains. Thus, fed slaughter gain will fall short of declining non-fed slaughter, reducing total beef output. But, increasing pork supplies will dampen cattle price increases well into next year.

Milk production continues well ahead of last year's pace, however, declining milk-feed price ratio may be a harbinger of future production cuts. Total milk output in the U.S. in April was 10,741 million pounds, up 2.5 per cent from the year ago level and 1.7 per cent from March. Herd size was down 0.6 per cent but output per cow jumped 29 pounds from the April 1976 average. For entire first 4 months of 1977, output was 2.2 per cent above the like period last year. While the milk price is up from last year's levels, feed costs have increased more, thus reducing the milk-feed price ratio 3.9 per cent to 1.47.

You would if you borrowed from the Federal Land Bank ... because he's one of our member-owners. You see, despite our name, the Federal Land Bank is not funded by the federal government. Each Land Bank Association is farmer-owned and operated and has been for generations.

Our funds come from the sale of bonds. And the board of directors of each Association is elected directly by the farmers who borrow, and consequently, own the Association. So, if you need long-term farm credit, consider your local "Federal" Land Bank Association.

Agricultural college enrollments increased 75 per cent in the six-year period from 1969 to 1975.

Many ag school deans attribute the enrollment jump to young people's concerns about world food production, a growing interest in ecology, and the back-to-nature movement that began in the late 1960's.

Present or former 4-H members who plan to major in agriculture or related fields may be eligible for college scholarships offered by private-sector donors this year through National 4-H Council.

4-H scholarships range in value from $600 to $1,000. They are awarded on the basis of interest in attending college, 4-H background, grades, leadership ability and financial need.

DeKalb Ag Research, Inc. offers four $800 scholarships to young men and women who plan to enroll for their junior year of college in the fall of 1977, and who expect to major in some phase of agribusiness. Recipients also will spend two days studying operations at the company's research headquarters in DeKalb, Ill.

Alpha Gamma Rho Educational Foundation provides one $600 scholarship to a 4-H member planning to enroll as an agricultural college freshman in the fall of 1977.

Two scholarships of $1,000 each are donated by Allied Mills, Inc. These go to current or former 4-H members who will be juniors majoring in animal science at a college or university this fall.

Champion Valley Farms, Inc., Recipe Division, provides two Lassie 4-H Veterinary Medicine scholarships of $1,000 each to former 4-H members currently enrolled in a college of veterinary medicine.

4-H scholarships are a means of recognizing outstanding 4-H work and furthering the college education of present and former 4-H'ers. Recipients are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Full information on scholarships and special application forms are available from the State 4-H Office.

Herd size was down 0.6 per cent but output per cow jumped 29 pounds from the April 1976 average. For entire first 4 months of 1977, output was 2.2 per cent above the like period last year. While the milk price is up from last year's levels, feed costs have increased more, thus reducing the milk-feed price ratio 3.9 per cent to 1.47.

Welding Contest Held By FFA

The Logan Elm FFA Chapter sponsored a welding contest Wednesday afternoon in the Vo-Ag shop with teams from the county FFA chapters.

The purpose of the contest is to demonstrate the ability to weld and cut with an arc welder and oxy-acetylene torches, to demonstrate proper safety precautions at all times, and to stimulate the interest of FFA members with special skills in shop welding techniques. Placings were as follows:

first place; Dave Harber (Teays Valley), second place; Charlie Roberts (Westfall), and third place; Wayne Cantrell (Teays Valley). Woods Welding and Circleville Metal Works helped with the contest.

Agricultural college enrollments increased 75 per cent in the six-year period from 1969 to 1975.

Many ag school deans attribute the enrollment jump to young people's concerns about world food production, a growing interest in ecology, and the back-to-nature movement that began in the late 1960's.

Present or former 4-H members who plan to major in agriculture or related fields may be eligible for college scholarships offered by private-sector donors this year through National 4-H Council.

4-H scholarships range in value from $600 to $1,000. They are awarded on the basis of interest in attending college, 4-H background, grades, leadership ability and financial need.

DeKalb Ag Research, Inc. offers four $800 scholarships to young men and women who plan to enroll for their junior year of college in the fall of 1977, and who expect to major in some phase of agribusiness. Recipients also will spend two days studying operations at the company's research headquarters in DeKalb, Ill.

Alpha Gamma Rho Educational Foundation provides one $600 scholarship to a 4-H member planning to enroll as an agricultural college freshman in the fall of 1977.

Two scholarships of $1,000 each are donated by Allied Mills, Inc. These go to current or former 4-H members who will be juniors majoring in animal science at a college or university this fall.

Champion Valley Farms, Inc., Recipe Division, provides two Lassie 4-H Veterinary Medicine scholarships of $1,000 each to former 4-H members currently enrolled in a college of veterinary medicine.

4-H scholarships are a means of recognizing outstanding 4-H work and furthering the college education of present and former 4-H'ers. Recipients are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service.

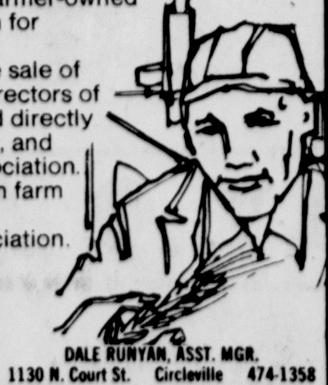

Full information on scholarships and special application forms are available from the State 4-H Office.

Would you borrow money from this man?

You would if you borrowed from the Federal Land Bank ... because he's one of our member-owners. You see, despite our name, the Federal Land Bank is not funded by the federal government. Each Land Bank Association is farmer-owned and operated and has been for generations.

Our funds come from the sale of bonds. And the board of directors of each Association is elected directly by the farmers who borrow, and consequently, own the Association.

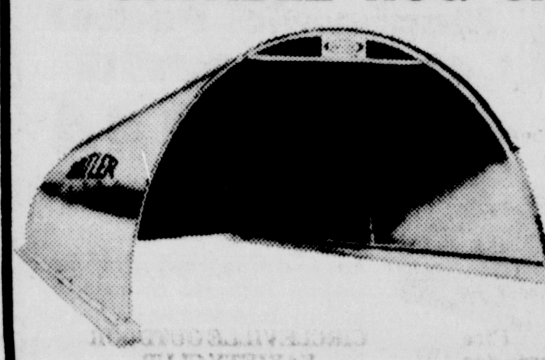

So, if you need long-term farm credit, consider your local "Federal" Land Bank Association.

heat in the 180 low hurdles with a time of 19.8 which is the second fastest time. Top time in the lows was 19.7. Dave will run in the finals of the 180 lows at 3:10 p.m. Frank Merrill of Circleville did not have to compete in the 880-yard run and will be in the finals at 3:30 p.m. today.

Dodgers Pound Reds, 10-3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I said in the spring that the Dodgers will probably be leading in June," reflected Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, "but I thought it would be three or four games, not 13."

Los Angeles battered the Reds 10-3 Friday night and sent the Reds to third place in the National League West.

Yet, even with a season high 17 hits there was no sign of overconfidence in the Los Angeles clubhouse.

"It's still way too early to be thinking about anything else except the next game," said right-fielder Reggie Smith, who accounted for three of the Dodgers' hits, two doubles and a single, and drove in two runs and made a remarkable catch to take a home run away from Pete Rose. "I'm glad everyone approached the game like they did, just laughing and joking and keeping loose."

There was little laughing and joking in the Cincinnati clubhouse as the defending world champions slipped 13½ games behind the runaway Dodgers and ½-game behind San Francisco.

A crowd of 53,055 jammed Dodger Stadium, the Dodgers' largest crowd of the season, and another big crowd was expected for the second game of the series today when Don Sutton, 6-1, was scheduled to pitch for Los Angeles against Cincinnati's Jack Billingham, 5-3.

The Dodgers held only a 5-3 lead through seven innings but scored five times in the eighth inning, batting around for the 10th time this season.

Steve Garvey and Dusty Baker slugged bases-empty home runs for Los Angeles but it was Smith, jumping his batting average to .336, who provided the impetus for the Dodgers' third straight victory this season over Cincinnati as the Reds suffered their fourth successive loss.

"Tonight the fans fell in love with a superstar," Manager Tom Lasorda unabashedly said about his right-fielder.

It was in the sixth inning, when the Dodgers led by only two runs, that Smith leaped against the bullpen gate in right field, spearing Rose's long drive.

"I think it would have been out if the gate hadn't come open," said Smith. "No, I didn't kick it open. But I'm glad that it did open or I might have lost my arm."

The Dodgers nailed Cincinnati starter Pat Zachry, 2-6, for five runs in the first three innings. It was Zachry who defeated the Dodgers five straight times before losing in 1976.

Cincinnati started back against Tommy John, 5-2, when George Foster homered to lead off the fourth and the Reds added two unearned runs in the fifth, with the help of two errors on a double play ball by Dave Lopes. John blanked Cincinnati in the sixth and seventh and then Charlie Hough worked the final two innings and earned his 13th save.

Asked if the Reds can still catch the Dodgers, Rose remarked, "If I didn't think we could, I wouldn't be wearing this uniform. We've been worse off than this. The Dodgers definitely will have to be beaten, because they're not going to beat themselves."

Gregg Gets Extension

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns' Coach Forrest Gregg, who was honored as National Football League Coach of the Year last year, got more recognition Friday when the Browns extended his contract through the 1978 season.

Financial details weren't disclosed, but Gregg was reported to have received a sizeable pay raise along with the one-year contract extension.

The coach presently is in the third year of a three-year contract, and he said the extra year "gives us more time to accomplish the job here—be a winner."

Gregg, who played under Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, came to Cleveland as offensive line coach in 1974 and moved up to the head coaching job the next season.

The Browns lost their first nine games under Gregg before upsetting Cincinnati and going on to a 3-11 season.

Then, last year, the Browns bounced back with a 9-5 record—best in several seasons.

Gregg has his work cut out for him this year. The Browns' 1977 campaign starts out with games against the Cincinnati Bengals, New England Patriots, Pittsburgh Steelers and Oakland Raiders—a rugged lineup.

Other awards went to Lois Vance, high single game, 229; Marjorie Morgan, high series, 580; Sharon Hayes, high average, 162; Teresa Marion, high game with handicap, 224; Sharon Hoover, high series with handicap, 605.

W.I.B.C. awards were presented to Helen Swackhammer, triplicate score; Sharon Hayes, high series; Carlene Brokaw, most improved bowler, 21 pins.

Lois Vance recieved a 225 pin; Morgan, Hayes, Marion, Rosemary Flowers and Connie Smith received 200 pins; Hayes, Morgan, Hoover, Swackhammer, Vance and Betty Higgins received 500 pins.

A gift was presented to president Teresa Marion for her work given during the year.

Officers elected were Teresa Marion, president; Marie Karr, vice-president; Rosemary Flowers, secretary-treasurer; Nancy Strawser, sergeant-at-arms.

Dodgers Pound Reds, 10-3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I said in the spring that the Dodgers will probably be leading in June," reflected Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, "but I thought it would be three or four games, not 13."

Actually, Sparky, it's 13 1/2. Los Angeles battered the Reds 10-3 Friday night and sent the Reds to third place in the National League West.

Yet, even with a season high 17 hits there was no sign of overconfidence in the Los Angeles clubhouse.

"It's still way too early to be thinking about anything else except the next game," said right-fielder Reggie Smith, who accounted for three of the Dodgers' hits, two doubles and a single, and drove in two runs and made a remarkable catch to take a home run away from Pete Rose. "I'm glad everyone approached the game like they did, just laughing and joking and keeping loose."

There was little laughing and joking in the Cincinnati clubhouse as the defending world champions slipped 13 1/2 games behind the runaway Dodgers and 1/2-game behind San Francisco.

A crowd of 53,055 jammed Dodger Stadium, the Dodgers' largest crowd of the season, and another big crowd was expected for the second game of the series today when Don Sutton, 6-1, was scheduled to pitch for Los Angeles against Cincinnati's Jack Billingham, 5-3.

The Dodgers held only a 5-3 lead through seven innings but scored five times in the eighth inning, batting around for the 10th time this season.

Steve Garvey and Dusty Baker slugged bases-empty home runs for Los Angeles but it was Smith, jumping his batting average to .336, who provided the impetus for the Dodgers' third straight victory this season over Cincinnati as the Reds suffered their fourth successive loss.

"Tonight the fans fell in love with a superstar," Manager Tom Lasorda unabashedly said about his right-fielder.

It was in the sixth inning, when the Dodgers led by only two runs, that Smith leaped against the bullpen game in right field, spearing Rose's long drive.

"I think it would have been out if the gate hadn't come open," said Smith. "No, I didn't kick it open. But I'm glad that it did open or I might have lost my arm."

The Dodgers nailed Cincinnati starter Pat Zachry, 2-6, for five runs in the first three innings. It was Zachry who defeated the Dodgers five straight times before losing in 1976.

Cincinnati started back against Tommy John, 5-2, when George Foster homered to lead off the fourth and the Reds added two unearned runs in the fifth, with the help of two errors on a double play ball by Dave Lopes. John blanked Cincinnati in the sixth and seventh and then Charlie Hough worked the final two innings and earned his 13th save.

Asked if the Reds can still catch the Dodgers, Rose remarked, "If I didn't think we could, I wouldn't be wearing this uniform. We've been worse off than this. The Dodgers definitely will have to be beaten, because they're not going to beat themselves."

Gregg Gets Extension

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns' Coach Forrest Gregg, who was honored as National Football League Coach of the Year last year, got more recognition Friday when the Browns extended his contract through the 1978 season.

Financial details weren't disclosed, but Gregg was reported to have received a sizeable pay raise along with the one-year contract extension.

The coach presently is in the third year of a three-year contract, and he said the extra year "gives us more time to accomplish the job here—be a winner."

Gregg, who played under Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, came to Cleveland as offensive line coach in 1974 and moved up to the head coaching job the next season.

The Browns lost their first nine games under Gregg before upsetting Cincinnati and going on to a 3-11 season.

Then, last year, the Browns bounced back with a 9-5 record—best in several seasons.

Gregg has his work cut out for him this year. The Browns' 1977 campaign starts out with games against the Cincinnati Bengals, New England Patriots, Pittsburgh Steelers and Oakland Raiders—a rugged lineup.

Vikings Cop Pair From Hartley

Teays Valley hosted Bishop Hartley in a doubleheader and swept both ends of the twinbill, 10-8, 7-2, from the Hawks Friday.

Jeff Keefer and Dean Gloyd shared the mound for the Vikings in the opener. They allowed 12 hits, seven walks and three strike outs.

Melle went the distance for Hartley and gave up 13 hits, six walks and fanned two.

Terry Trego and Duane Keller each had a triple and single for the Vikings, Lance Reese, Gary VanPelt and Charley Lee each had a single, Eric Graves rapped a homer and two singles, Craig Meyers a double and Ernie Fielder slammed a homer and double.

Mike Herron hurled the distance in the nightcap and gave up nine hits, struck out four and didn't issue a walk.

Resier hurled all the way for Hartley and allowed 11 hits, five walks and fanned seven.

John Sanders had a double and single for the Vikings, Terry Trego and Duane Keller each had a single, Craig Meyers two singles, John Pabst a homer and single and Charley Lee had three singles.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Gauge everything accurately; be quick to perceive erroneous information. Some tricky spots indicated. Make decisions to act in a well-balanced, foresighted manner.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Don't do half a job or get only half a story. In discussions, listen to ALL - carefully.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A good day in which to seek information you need. Study or creative writing of some kind will pay off in a sense of deep satisfaction.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Stimulating aspects give new impetus to all worthwhile undertakings. Especially favored: family interests, community projects, outdoor pursuits.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid hasty decisions. Look more closely into all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Your intuition at a peak. A good day for backing your hunches with Zestful, optimistic performance. Travel and romance favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Influences indicate a wider scope of interests, possibly greater activity. But take precautions not to overstep sensible boundaries.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Routine matters may go as planned. A "lessor light" may offer much-needed help. Don't underestimate his (her) ability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Your judgment still a bit "cloudy." Optimism may be coloring your outlook, so postpone making decisions until a more propitious period.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Certain situations may be annoying, but they MUST be handled - and calmly. At all costs, avoid anxiety and over emotionalism.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good stellar influences. A novel "twist," a new approach to a stymied project could spark fresh interest, relieve the monotony of details.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A most fortunate day for personal plans and ambitions. Your innate intuition at a peak. Don't hesitate to back your hunches.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a gregarious personality, great magnanimity and outstanding versatility and generosity. You love all that is beautiful in life, but are especially attracted to literature and music; could also become a scintillating entertainer since you have an inborn flair for the dramatic. Whether as a vocation or an avocation, you should write - essays, critiques, novels, detective stories. Traits to curb: temperamentalism, hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: G. K. Chesterton, English journalist, author; Patrick Henry, early Amer. statesman; U.S. Pres. John F. Kennedy; Bob Hope, famed comedian.

The work of Soren Kierkegaard (1813-1855), the Danish religious philosopher, is the basis for modern existentialism.

The world's record banana split was assembled in St. Paul, Minn., in 1973. It spanned a mile, required 33,000 scoops of ice cream and 10,580 bananas.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Gauge everything accurately; be quick to perceive erroneous information. Some tricky spots indicated. Make decisions to act in a well-balanced, foresighted manner.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Don't do half a job or get only half a story. In discussions, listen to ALL — carefully.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A good day in which to seek information you need. Study or creative writing of some kind will pay off in a sense of deep satisfaction.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Stimulating aspects give new impetus to all worthwhile undertakings. Especially favored: family interests, community projects, outdoor pursuits.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid hasty decisions. Look more closely into all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Your intuition at a peak. A good day for backing your hunches with Zestful, optimistic performance. Travel and romance favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Influences indicate a wider scope of interests, possibly greater activity. But take precautions not to overstep sensible boundaries.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Routine matters may not go as planned. A "lesser light" may offer much-needed help. Don't underestimate his (her) ability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Your judgment still a bit "cloudy." Optimism may be coloring your outlook, so postpone making decisions until a more propitious period.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Certain situations may be annoying, but they MUST be handled — and calmly. At all costs, avoid anxiety and over emotionalism.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good stellar influences. A novel "twist," a new approach to a stymied project could spark fresh interest, relieve the monotony of details.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A most fortunate day for personal plans and ambitions. Your innate intuition at a peak. Don't hesitate to back your hunches.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a gregarious personality, great magnanimity and outstanding versatility and generosity. You love all that is beautiful in life, but are especially attracted to literature and music; could also become a scintillating entertainer since you have an inborn flair for the dramatic. Whether as a vocation or an avocation, you should write — essays, critiques, novels, detective stories. Traits to curb: temperamentalism, hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: G. K. Chesterton, Eng. journalist, author; Patrick Henry, early Amer. statesman; U.S. Pres. John F. Kennedy; Bob Hope, famed comedian.
